ALTHOUGH there is at the moment very tle indication of any great movement in China in the direction of railway construction, the idea of forming a system has no been abandoned. It is true that appearances would warrant the assumption that the introduction of the railway is likely to be deferred for years, owing to the ambitious rung having - practically shelved the question for a time. But the Viceroy of Chibli yarn and other articles (which was ordered to be still cherishes the plan of continuing collected by the Imperial Maritime Customs at the Tientsin-Kaiping Railway to other points, and he now has the populace in his $240,000 a year. The Governor of Shantung has evidently discovered the saving in time effected in moving material by this means as compared with coolie labour. It is likewise stated, on good authority, that the Government have sanctioned the construction of the line from Lutai to Shan-hai-kwan. From thence it will in course of time be continued to Newchwang and Moukden; thus -providing for the defence of the Manchurian frontier, and opening up a fine country for settlement. by the surplus population from more crowded and less fertile provinces. HONGKONG SANITARY BOARD.

A meeting of the Sanitary Board was held yesterday afternoon. -There were present :-8. Brown President Major General Gordon, Vice-President; Hor N. G. Mitchell Innes, Acting Registrar-General: Hon. Ho Kai. Hon. O. Chadwick, C.M.G., Mr. N. J. Ede, and r. H. McCallum, Secretary. ABATEMENT OF MUISANCES.

A letter from the Colonial Secretary, was laid on the table in reply to one from the Board asking that the law might be so amended that the to serve a notice for abatement of a nuisance without waiting for the authority of the Board to enable him to do so. The Colonial Secretary's letter stated that such notices bore the words "by order of the Board and that His Excellency advised that unless the power of the Board given to the Secretary, it would not be practicable to alter the Ordinance in the way required and it was not supposed that the law desired give the powers of the Board to the Scoretary alone. If the Sanitary Board and the Secretary would draft the desired alteration, the Attorner General would be happy to pass an amending began by saying that no alteration could be made in the law and, at the finish, stated that would draft the amendment.

The ACTING-REGISTRAR GENERAL seked the Secretary could tell the Board what the practice was at bome. The SECRETARY said he would look the mater up and place it before the Board in writing at the next meeting.

Hon. O. CHADWICK said all the Board asked for was that the Scoretary should have power to serve the notices without reference to the Board. If the person so served refused to abate the nuisance then the matter would come before the Board. They did not want the Secretary empowered to take action in the matter, He thought if that was pointed out clearly there would be no objection to the amendment.

The PRESIDENT proposed that a letter e plaining this be addressed to the Government and that the Secretary druft on amondment at the next meeting, at the same time stating the procedure adopted in England. The motion was carried.

A letter from the Colonial Becretary, enclose ing one from the Japanese Consul stating that cholera had broken out in Nagasaki, and that all steamers going from that to other ports in Japan would be subject to medical inspection, was

Mr. EDE caked if any ship had arrived here from Nagasaki with cholors on board. The SECRETARY said that would not come the knowledge of the Board. The Health Officer would report to the Government.

DEFROTIVE DEAINS. A letter from the occupier of No. 14 Wanchai Road, complaining of the inequitary condition of the drains in that tenemer was read. The letter stated that one of the writer's children had died from diphtheria, and he and the rest of his family had left the house for a month. Since his return, after the house had been disinfected, he and his family had saffered from sore throats and diarrhose, baused by the condition of the draine. The report of the Sanitary Surveyor of espection of the drainage of the house situated at the corner of Shelley and Staunton Streets was laid on the table. The Surveyor stated the drains from the Litchen and being alongside he jumped into it and arrested bathrooms had been opened. The former were thoroughly shoked with a black deposit, while the ground around showed unmistakeable signs of sewage contamination, the latter, though not quite choked to the same extent, were in a the last witness very similar condition, and the ground around presented the same appearance. The drains were bad in construction and lacky, and running under the buildings, as they did, could not fail to be a serious danger to the health of the occupanta. To remedy the defects, there were no other means for the efficient drainage of these bouses than by complete re-construction of the drains. Owing to the level and the position of the cockhouse and bathrooms, it would be necessary to carry the drains under the buildings and the natural outlet would be into a private lane on d'Haiphang draws a pitiful picture of the condi- this house but for the others also.

At the general meeting of the Suez Canal Company, the threatened opposition to the existing tariff broke down completely. Ever since the holders with their peculiar views, but the ballo showed them and their converts to be an insignificant minority. It was explained by M. competent for a general meeting to discuss the Administration, which is bound by international agreements. It does not appear to be understood by the so-called Defence Committee that a great maritime bighway construct ed within the dominions of the Khedive does not stand precisely upon the same footing as a paper suill or a blast furnace set up on French soil by a Freuch company. They seem to think themselves very hardly used because the world does not consent to give them uncontrolled power t throttle the commerce between East and West for their own private surichment. M. de Lesseps has more than once complained of the emberrasemen caused by their selfish and shortsighted attempts to interiors with the management, and appears. almost to regret his inability to fight the matter out with them on their own ground. He is, however, procladed from doing this by the constitution of the company, and is only able to offer to the malcontents the inadequate consolation of voting want of confidence in the Administration In doing this they have only disclosed their own numerical weakness, but had they oven anoccaded in carrying their resolution they would not have New Malwa effected the slightest change in the arrange-The report read by M. de Leesens might be

The widening agreement of 1886 are being carried out at a cost not exceeding the estimates, and contrasting strongly alike with the gloomy prognostications of the malcentents and with the rate of expenditure upon the original canal. Shipe drawing as much as twenty-air feet can how pass freely from and to and, and the average speed has been appreciably accelerated This is due in part to the widening of the waterway with which progress is being made, and in part to the improved arrangements for making transit continuous through the night. It is worthy of remark that the working expenses. apart from repayment of capital, amount only to eleven and a half per cent. of the revenue. Altogether the undertaking appears to be in an extremely prosperous and satisfactory position; fact upon which England, as the holder of nearly two hundred thousand shares; may congratulate itself. Lord Beaconsfield's investment has turned out a particularly profitable one, since although we obtain for the present only a modest five per cent, the capital raine of our holding has quadrupled. In 1894 we shall reach the end of the term for which Ismail Pasha dispose of his coupons, and our shares then bear the full interest paid by the undertaking. There is no reason to apprehend any drop in the rate, while

Its share at the present time would amount to over five and a - half million france. But, unhappily, it sold its right to fifteen per cent. during the whole period of the company's concession-i.e., for ninety-nine years-for the ridiculous sum of twenty two million france, or just four years' purchase of the dividend payable for hist year. The purchaser was the Credit Fongier of France that Frenchmen, equally with ourselves, are to be congratulated upon having madean excellent bargain. When the Euglish shares recover their right to sividend in 1894, the Egyptian Treasury will be relieved of the payment of interest amounting to nearly £200,000 per annum, but this seems to be about all the banefit it-can look for from an nudertsking for which Egypt paid so heavily in money, in forced labour, and even in life, until the end of the concession, when the whole undertaking reverts to the Egyptian Government. It is a handsome endowment for the future, but does not give much assistance in the solution of financial problems in the present The remarkable success that has attended the conversion of the Egyptian Debt fortunately preves that the most difficult of these problems can be surmounted, in spite of past improvidence, if the country remains under its present direcion. At the same time, it is impossible not to regret that so little of the solid advantages of the Sues Canal falls to the share of the Egyp tian people.—Times.
